

The diagram consists of a large rectangle divided vertically by a red dotted line. The left half of the rectangle is filled with a solid blue color, while the right half remains white. This visualizes the concept of a function being defined on one side of a point.

